This is the first complete history of the World Federation of Foreign-Language Teachers Associations. Founded in 1931, the Federation developed gradually into a globally representative body of the language-teaching profession. The first 75 years of the history is reported by three former Presidents: Josef Hendrich (Czech Republic), Edward Batley (United Kingdom) and Denis Cunningham (Australia). The volume also includes an overview of the 22 World Congresses of the Federation, a list of past and present members, a bibliography of FIPLV publications and the Federation's current Statutes.
